The Washington Post/Kaiser Family Foundation/Harvard University

Survey of Low-Wage Workers

August 2008

Methodology

The Washington Post/Kaiser Family Foundation/Harvard University Survey Project is a three-way partnership and an experiment in combining survey research and reporting to better inform the public. The Survey of Low-Wage Workers, the 17th in this partnership series, was conducted by telephone from June 18 to July 7, 2008 among 1,350 randomly selected low-wage workers nationwide. Low-wage workers were defined as adults ages 18 to 64 working at least 30 hours per week, not self-employed, and earning $27,000 or less in 2007 (this income cutoff was chosen as it roughly corresponds to the bottom 40 percent of the wage distribution). Interviews were conducted in English and Spanish via landline telephone (1,200) as well as via cell phone (150). Results are weighted to ensure the data are reflective of the demographics of the nation's low-wage worker population. The margin of sampling error based on the total sample is plus or minus 4 percentage points. Percentages may not add to 100% due to rounding. Telephone interviews were carried out by Abt SRBI Inc.

Representatives of The Washington Post, the Henry J. Kaiser Family Foundation, and Harvard University worked together to develop the survey questionnaire and analyze the results. Each organization bears the sole responsibility for the work that appears under its name. The project team included Jon Cohen, The Washington Post director of polling and Jennifer Agiesta, polling analyst; Drew E. Altman, president of the Kaiser Family Foundation, Mollyann Brodie, vice president and director of public opinion and survey research, Elizabeth Hamel and Claudia Deane, associate directors, Carolina Gutiérrez, survey analyst, and Sasha Buscho, research assistant; and Robert J. Blendon, professor of health policy and political analysis at the Harvard School of Public Health and the John F. Kennedy School of Government, and John M. Benson, managing director of the Harvard Opinion Research Program in the Harvard School of Public Health.

Please note: (1) Table percentages may not add to 100% due to rounding. (2) Values less than 0.5% are indicated by an asterisk (*). (3) "VOL" indicates that a response was volunteered by the respondent and not an explicitly offered choice. (4) Sampling error is only one of many potential sources of error in this or any other public opinion poll.
