

PARENT, CHILDREN & MEDIA

Speaker Biographies and Contact Information June 19, 2007

MIKE ANGUS, J.D.

Executive Vice President and General Counsel
Fox Interactive Media
407 N. Maple Drive
Beverly Hill, CA 90210
Ph: 310-969-7070

Mike Angus is the Executive Vice President and General Counsel of News Corporation's Fox Interactive Media (FIM). He helps steer FIM in his role as the chief legal officer of the executive team. In particular, he negotiates new business opportunities, coordinates privacy and safety activities, and oversees day-to-day operations.

Angus joined FIM in July 2005 as a six-year veteran of News Corporation. He previously served as Senior Vice President, Business & Legal Affairs at Fox Cable Networks Group. Angus started his career at Sherman & Howard in Denver, where he focused on corporate transactions. He has also served as a Staff Sergeant in the U.S. Army Military Intelligence Corps.

An active President's Circle member at Los Angeles County Museum of Art, Angus holds a law degree from Harvard Law School and a Bachelors degree from the University of Colorado, Boulder.

JIM DYKE

President, Jim Dyke & Associates
Executive Director, TV Watch
46 A State Street
Charleston, SC 29401
Ph: 843-722-9670
TelevisionWatch.org

Jim Dyke is President of Jim Dyke & Associates, a communications consulting firm that develops strategies and manages media campaigns for corporations, trade associations, and individuals. He is also the executive director of TV Watch. Launched in May 2005, TV Watch is the leading national organization to promote parental controls and individual choices as an alternative to increased government regulation of TV content. TV Watch is a nonpartisan coalition of 27 individuals and organizations including legal and entertainment experts and political and consumer organizations representing more than four million Americans.

Mr. Dyke is a seasoned communications expert who has helped shape the public policy landscape both in and outside of Washington for over a decade. He has served in the Bush Administration, worked on three Presidential campaigns, managed a congressional campaign, and worked in the private sector. In the fall of 2005, Mr. Dyke served as President Bush's communications advisor during the nomination of Harriet Miers to the United States Supreme Court.

Prior to starting Jim Dyke & Associates in 2005, Mr. Dyke served as Communications Director of the Republican National Committee (RNC), where he spearheaded a successful communications strategy that helped re-elect President George W. Bush in 2004.

Mr. Dyke has been a guest on numerous local and national radio and television shows including FOX News' Hannity and Colmes, CNN's Crossfire, the CBS Early Show, MSNBC's Live with Lester Holt and NBC's Weekend Today. He serves on the USO World Board of Governors and Charleston Habitat for Humanity.

An Arkansas native, Mr. Dyke is a graduate of the University of Arkansas where he earned a degree in History. He and his wife Dawn, and his two children, Emily and Trester, reside in Charleston, South Carolina.

JACKIE JUDD

Vice President and Senior Advisor for Communications
Kaiser Family Foundation
1330 G Street, NW
Washington, DC 20005
Ph: 202-347-5270
jjudd@kff.org

Jackie Judd is Vice President and Senior Advisor for Communications at the Kaiser Family Foundation. She joined the Foundation in 2003 as a Senior Visiting Fellow. Ms. Judd's current responsibilities include program development for the Barbara Jordan Conference Center and Kaiser Network, international journalism training in the coverage of HIV/AIDS and providing strategic communication advice.

Ms. Judd is a former award-winning journalist. She was with ABC News for 16 years as a correspondent for "World News Tonight with Peter Jennings," "Nightline" and "Good Morning America." She also worked at National Public Radio on "Morning Edition" and "All Things Considered" and is a former CBS News Radio correspondent. Her honors include a National Endowment for the Humanities Fellowship in political history at the University of California at Santa Barbara; several Emmy Awards; an Edward R. Murrow Award; the Joan Barone Award; a duPont Award; a commendation from Women in Radio and Television for a series on women's health issues; an Emmy for "Nightline's" coverage of Iraq's invasion of Kuwait; and an Overseas Press Club Citation of Excellence for her piece on the Czechoslovakian secret police. Ms. Judd received a bachelor's degree from American University in 1974.

VICKY RIDEOUT, M.A.

Vice President and Director
Program for the Study of Entertainment Media and Health
Kaiser Family Foundation
2400 Sand Hill Road
Menlo Park, CA 94025
Ph: 650-854-9400
vrideout@kff.org

Vicky Rideout is a vice president at the Kaiser Family Foundation and director of the Foundation's Program for the Study of Entertainment Media and Health. Ms. Rideout oversees the Foundation's research agenda on media and children's health. She has directed numerous studies on topics such as: the amount of time children spend with various media; food marketing to children on television and the Internet; sexual content on television; public service advertising on TV; media use among infants and toddlers; the impact of health-related television content on public awareness; and teens' use of the Internet for health information. She has also conducted numerous focus groups among parents, children and teens regarding media.

Ms. Rideout's research has been published in the Journal of the American Medical Association, American Behavioral Scientist, and Health Affairs, and has been widely reported on in the popular press. She has testified on health and media in the U.S. Congress, the Institute of Medicine, the Federal Trade Commission, and the Federal Communications Commission, and has appeared as a guest on television and radio programs including Nightline, The Today Show, Talk of the Nation, Good Morning America, and The Early Show. She graduated with honors from Harvard University and received her master's from Syracuse University.

VICTOR STRASBURGER, M.D.

Program Chair, Council on Communications and Media, American Academy of Pediatrics
Professor of Pediatrics, University of New Mexico School of Medicine
1 University of New Mexico, MSC10 5590
Albuquerque, NM 87131
Ph: 505-272-0338
VStrasburger@salud.unm.edu

Victor Strasburger, M.D. is currently chief of the Division of Adolescent Medicine, Professor of Pediatrics, and Professor of Family & Community Medicine at the University of New Mexico School of Medicine in Albuquerque, New Mexico. He has also served as the program chair of the Council on Communications and Media at the American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP). Dr. Strasburger was the lead author of the AAP council's policy statement on children, adolescents and advertising.

He graduated from Yale College (summa cum laude, Phi Beta Kappa), where he studied fiction writing with Robert Penn Warren. He went to Harvard Medical School and did his pediatric residency at Children's Hospital in Seattle, Children's Hospital in Boston, and Paddington Green Children's Hospital in London. He completed an Adolescent Medicine Fellowship at Harvard Medical School.

Dr. Strasburger has authored more than 120 articles and papers and 8 books on the subjects of adolescent medicine, and the effects of television on children and adolescents, including Adolescent Medicine: A Practical Guide (2nd edition, 1998, Lippincott-Williams & Wilkins, with Dr. Robert Brown) and Adolescents And The Media (Sage, 1995). His most popular book is entitled, Getting Your Kids To Say No In The 1990s When You Said Yes In The 1960s (Fireside/Simon & Schuster, 1993). His current book is a textbook: Children, Adolescents, And the Media, co-authored with Barbara Wilson, Ph.D. and published by SAGE Publications in Newbury Park, California in 2002. He also has one published novel, entitled Rounding Third & Heading Home. Dr. Strasburger has also served as a consultant to the National PTA and the AMA on children and the media. He has been featured several times on National Public Radio (NPR) and in Newsweek, and has appeared multiple times on "Oprah," "The Today Show," and "CBS This Morning."

In the year 2000, Dr. Strasburger was honored by the American Academy of Pediatrics with the Adele Delenbaugh Hofmann Award, for outstanding lifetime achievement in Adolescent Medicine, and was the first recipient of the Holroyd-Sherry Award, given for media Advocacy work.

Dr. Strasburger lives in Albuquerque with his wife (a neuropsychiatrist) and his two children, Max (age 11) and Katya (age 9).

TIM WINTER, J.D.

President
Parents Television Council
707 Wilshire Boulevard, Suite 2075
Los Angeles, CA 90017
Ph: 213-629-9255
twinter@parentstv.org

Tim Winter, J.D. is president of the Parents Television Council (PTC). He succeeds Brent Bozell who served as PTC president and founder from the organization's inception in 1995 until January 1, 2007.

Prior to coming to PTC, Mr. Winter spent 15 years with the National Broadcasting Company (NBC) serving in numerous management capacities for the GE-owned media conglomerate in Los Angeles, New York and Europe. His work experience included network broadcast operations; program production; international and domestic cable; digital media; and the owned-and-operated television station, KNBC. He also participated in the creation of MSNBC, the cable and online news joint venture with Microsoft Corporation.

Mr. Winter also worked at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer (MGM), where he led the legendary studio's Interactive Division and its online and video game publishing ventures. He was also president and chief operating officer at FasTV, Inc., an internet media company. And most recently he was the co-founder and Chief Operating Officer of Desktop TV, a high tech media firm that delivered live broadcasts of business-oriented cable programming to the enterprise marketplace via internet protocol.

Mr. Winter is the architect of the PTC's national campaign for Cable Choice. As a father, he believes it is critical that parents be given the opportunity to select and pay for only those cable channels they want and not channels bundled by their cable operator. Cable Choice, he believes, is the ultimate solution for families who want to control the flow of indecent programs that come into the home.

He is also passionate about the harmful affects of violent and sexually charged video games on today's children. Harnessing the energies of the organization's more than one million members and its 43 grassroots chapters, Mr. Winter is working to ensure that retailers cannot sell graphic adult-oriented video games to children without the parent's consent.

With his extensive background in emerging technologies, Mr. Winter believes that it is important to prepare the Parents Television Council for the rapidly changing future of television. He realizes that in the coming years, television as we know it will dramatically change. Technical advancements such as broadband, video-on-demand and new program delivery systems will dramatically change how and when we watch television. Under his direction, the PTC will be able to respond to this new world of television.

Mr. Winter is a sought after speaker and interview subject. He can often be seen on television news circuit, including CNN, MSNBC and Fox News; he is frequently cited by the nation's leading newspapers, like USA Today, Los Angeles Times, Washington Post, New York Times and Wall Street Journal; and he is a regular source for numerous industry publications such as Variety, Hollywood Reporter and Broadcasting & Cable.

Born and raised in northern Virginia, Mr. Winter graduated from Principia College with a Bachelor's Degree in Business Administration. He earned his Juris Doctorate from Loyola Law School in Los Angeles and is a member of the California Bar Association.